

SOCIETY

Some of the oldest and most historic watering places in the country are in Virginia, and society for many years has gathered in the mountains of this State. The Greenbriar White Sulphur Springs is, perhaps, one of the most widely known resorts of its kind in the South, and has its season every year, just as it is at Newport and other fashionable gathering places for the smart set in the heated term. Debutantes are presented during the month of August, for that is the most fashionable of the summer months at the White, and the pretty cottages that dot the beautiful lawn and grounds of the place are gay with house parties at that time.

To the old White have gone the belles and beaux of generations past; driving sedately and comfortably through the country in great rumbling carriages and barouches, with colored slaves and a tremendous lot of baggage bringing up the rear. Beautiful women that have helped to make and mark the history of the country and the success or failure of great men have visited there, and it was at the old White that James Lindzey Gordon, the sweet singer, wrote many of his verses to the wits and belles of his generation. The old ballroom is fairly haunted with the gracious shadows of a long-ago day, and the trees along the famous "Lover's Leap" walk, whisper and nod to the rhododendron blooms, all replete with memories of those who have passed that way.

The Hot is the meeting place for the Virginia Bar Association each year, and prominent barristers from all parts of the State go there each season. Distinguished gatherings of famous men, with their families and guests make the occasion a very delightful one. Along the boulevard to the Warm Springs, another famous Virginia resort, the haunt of real society folk, are built some splendid summer residences. Miss Mary Johnston's country estate, "Three Hills," is one of the most interesting and charming in that section of the State. The beautiful, old-fashioned garden there turns back the years to days when the State was young, and you might easily imagine "Jacqueline," one of Miss Johnston's most picturesque women, as seated in the cool, dim drawing-room of the house, with her slender fingers upon her harp.

There is a world of history and charm about these old resorts. Smart society gathers near them with the modern forms of entertainment and enjoyment; the hotels have been remodelled and ancient customs have not survived, but there is a breath of the generation past, a charm of hidden story, that weaves its spell over everything. Numbers of families go back, year after year, because their fathers and mothers have done so before them, and the little boys and girls that play so happily about the grounds now, will in their turn come back to grace the balls and functions of a day yet to be unfolded.

BRENT WITT.

Prominent Engagement.
Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Weems, of Houston, Tex., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Kate, to Henry Rozier Dulaney, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rozier Dulaney, of Washington and Loudoun County. The wedding is to be a fashionable event of the early winter season. Mr. Dulaney is very widely and prominently related in Richmond, and his mother was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. George Ben Johnston during the recent Confederate Reunion.

Mrs. Dulaney, who was a great belle in Richmond as the beautiful Miss Anne Carter, was married in the State drawing-room of the Executive Mansion during the term of her cousin, Fitzhugh Lee, as Governor of Virginia. The groom-elect is a nephew of Thomas Nelson Carter, and is a graduate of the University of Virginia.

Talcott-Archer.
Fashionable society is deeply interested in the marriage of Miss Liza Bolling Archer, daughter of William S. Archer, to George Russell Talcott, Jr., which was quietly celebrated yesterday evening, with only the immediate families present. Rev. Landis R. Mason, D. D., rector of Grace Episcopal Church, performed the ceremony and the bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. There were no attendants. Mr. Talcott formerly made his home in this city, but now resides in Wheeling, W. Va., where he and his bride will go after a wedding journey. He is a son of the late G. R. Talcott. The wedding, although a very quiet one, is one of the most interesting of the early summer, owing to the social prominence of both bride and groom. The marriage was celebrated at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Berkeley Randolph, 215 North Shafer Street.

Guests of Relatives.
Mr. and Mrs. Calhorne Watkins have returned from their wedding trip to Canada, and are the guests of Mrs. W. A. Watkins, at 315 North Harrison Street. During their stay in Canada Mr. and Mrs. Watkins toured the Eastern provinces, visiting Montreal and Quebec, later visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Kerr Branch at their estate in Dutchess County, N. Y.

Weddings This Week.
A number of Richmond relatives will attend the marriage at Gwathmey on Friday of Miss Mary Hawes Tyler, daughter of Henry Magruder Tyler, to Henry Laurie Smith. The ceremony will be very quietly performed in the home of the bride's father at 3:45 o'clock, by E. L. Goodwin, rector of St. James-the-Less Church, Ashland. Miss Eliza Marshall Tyler will attend her sister as maid of honor and Walker Smith, brother of the groom, will act as best man. The wedding is a very quiet one, and will be followed by a
